Celebrated Local Photographer Anastasia Pottinger Releases Stunning New Photography Book – “100: What Time Creates”

Anastasia Pottinger’s unique artistic vision turns our youth-obsessed culture on its head by taking an intricate look into the beauty that can be found by appreciating and valuing how our bodies change with the passage of time.

In her first book, “100: What Time Creates,” Anastasia “Stacie” Pottinger uses light, shadow, talent, experience, and her intuitive perspective to capture the strength, endurance, and uncommon – and often overlooked – inherent beauty exclusive to women and men who have lived one hundred years or more.

Pottinger burst on the national and international scene when her black and white portrait series of centenarians ‘went viral’ and featured on thousands of websites and in publications around the globe, including CNN and Bored Panda. The series continued to grow, and soon became the book, “100: What Time Creates” published by Marcinson Press.

About the Author

Anastasia Pottinger

Anastasia “Stacie” Pottinger is a professional portrait photographer and founder of Rogue Studios. She has pursued her passion for photography since she was eight years old, when her parents handed her her very first camera, a Kodak 110, which she used to document her first solo trip to visit her grandparents in Georgia.

Originally daunted by the prospect of being an artist, in college Pottinger focused on her other passion, early childhood education. She earned her degree in Family Studies with an emphasis in child development. After the advent of digital cameras and the birth of her first son, Pottinger returned to her first love – photography – and four years later, opened her studio.

Pottinger has won numerous local, regional, and international awards for her photographs, most notably second and third place in the Julia Margaret Cameron Awards Nude and Figure category, and first place in the HumanKind Exhibition at PowerHouse Arena in Brooklyn, New York. She has also been included in juried exhibitions at The Center for Fine Art Photography in Fort Collins, Colorado and PhotoSpiva in Joplin, Missouri.

Her first photography book, “100: What Time Creates,” published by Marcinson Press, officially launches December 19, 2018. It is currently available through amazon.com, Barnes and Noble online, and through national and independent booksellers nationwide.

Pottinger lives in Columbia, Missouri, with her wife, two sons, and her “beloved mini-zoo” of two dogs, two cats, one ball python, and a part-time guinea pig.
